This Workshop is the first in a series, to teach the basics of iPhone photography.

We will talk (and walk) through the challenges and concerns we face while shooting photos, with opportunities for shooting nature landscapes, portraits and macro images. I'll teach you how to choose the correct iPhone settings and we will learn the principals to creative photography while exploring light and shadows. We'll also discuss storing and sharing your photos. My hope is that you'll leave the workshop feeling inspired and connected with yourself, nature, and your photography in a way you hadn't experienced before.

Reasons to shoot with an iPhone:

Walking is more enjoyable when you can simply pull your phone out of your pocket to capture a photo, instead of unpacking all your camera gear from your bag. It's rewarding when you take a photo that shows other people the unique and beautiful things that you see in the world around you. With the right knowledge, the iPhone can be used to take photos that are so good, most people would never believe they were taken with a phone!

About Karin:

I began taking photographs in 1990 soon after I started making my family. I was fortunate to be in the middle of a beautiful natural setting where I was absorbed in taking nature photos and portraits of my children. My passion compelled me to enroll in private photography classes with a reputable news photographer. I began taking team sport's photos of my kids, and their friends kept asking me if I'd take their portraits as well, so I started a photography business, specializing in high school seniors, family portraits, and weddings. During that time, while self-studying, I attended a 10-day photography retreat in Santorini, Greece, a photography workshop in Washington D.C., and an underwater photography certification class in Nassau, Bahamas.

Recently, I put down my professional Nikon camera with all its lenses, and now I photograph solely with my iPhone. People ask me all the time what camera I use for my photographs! Earlier this year, I completed a 21-hr course in iPhone photography and ever since, I've wanted to share it with others. I'm excited to help others learn and love photography as much as I do!

Requirements and Equipment: For the beginner photographer with an iPhone. Any smartphone will work but I will be specifically teaching for an iPhone. Bring a fully-charged iPhone with the latest IOS installed. Be prepared to sit/stand/walk for 3 hours.

Attire and Items to consider bringing: Dress in comfortable walking shoes, layers and you might want to carry a day pack with water, a hat, sunscreen, a snack, and small journal. *Will need a state park pass, or share-ride with someone that has one.

To enroll in Workshop Email karinkyte47@gmail.com with your contact information to begin the process and I will send you the specifics, along with the directions to our meeting place.
